Fructui erucula infidet in medio viridis, in parte verò corporis posteriore, anterioreque flavis, nigrisque punctis distincta; fructui huic non mediocriter damnum infert, repetitis vicibus exuvias deponit, venustiori continuo metamorphose elegantior facta sub finem Maii degenerat in nympham, trium septimanarum spatio muscæ flavæ prodeunt, uti latus habet.

XXVI. Urtica urens major.

HÆc herba nigricantis erucæ pabulum est, quasdam earum in scatulâ reservavi, quæ decimo quarto die Junii operculo adhærebant, in aureliis expallido flavas inversarum unam aperui curiositate stimolata, figuræ è folio pendentis inferiùs correspondebat, vigesimo octavo die ejusdem mensis papilio inde prodibat, cujus latus exteriùs fuscum, interiùs autem ex obscuro auriaci coloris erat, nigro purpureoque mirificè exornatum. Ex aureliarum maximâ musca nigra graveolens exibit, qualis, suprà aureliam folio insidens est depicta.

Acaros etiam in excrementis harum erucarum deprehendi in doliola nigra mutatos, in quatordecim dierum spatio, quales exhibentur, in lucem muscæ prodibant.

XXVII. Salix acuto folio.

IN pendulo longiore folio animalculum flavum punctis nigris intertextum exhibetur, decimâ quartâ die Junii folio adhærebat, & in nympham degeneravit, præterlapsis quindecim diebus, prodibat inde scarabæus, qualis folio superiùs infidet, qui semen suum adhuc in hæc folia disseminat, ex quo alia rursum animalcula producuntur.

Folium inferius eruculam fuscam exhibet, hisce foliis emanant rivi, sextâ die Junii telam confecit, & in eâ, in sequentis anni mensẽ usque Majum permanfit, tunc talis inde musca prodit, qualis infrâ depingitur.

XXVIII. Rosa versicolor.

Spadicea rosæ insidens eruca ventre suo graditur tribus solummodò trunculis anteriùs instructa, hisce rosis in finem usque
