XXXVII. Salix niger aquaticus.

HUjuſmodi virides erucas punctatas in friſiâ quàm plurimas ſuper hujuſmodi ſalicibus atque malis, quarum arborum foliis tanquam pabulo in vigeſimam octavam uſque Auguſti paſcebantur, inveni, ubi nigras in aurelias immutabantur, & decima quarta Aprilis ſubſequentis anni duæ hujuſmodi cinereæ phalænæ ova viridia inſtantaneè parientes inde productæ fuerunt. Cæteri verò papiliunculi omnes citiùs educebantur, quorum alæ tantoperè fuerant intricatæ, ut ne formam quidem eorum agnoſcere potuerim.

XXXVIII. Salix.

ELegans hæc eruca ſalice tanquam pabulo ſuo veſcebatur, in vigeſimam ſecundam uſque Junii, ubi mutabatur in aureliam, indies in fuſcum colorem magis magiſque vergentem, roris adinſtar ſuper pruna cærulea deſcendentis, inde tertiâ Auguſti elegans hujuſmodi cinerea rubicundaque phalæna prodiit.

XXXIX. Flos ſalicis.

BIcornis hæc eruca Lugdunum Batavorum mihi translata ibidem in ſalice reperta fuit, unde quoque per me enutrita fuit. Vel minimo etiam motu ſonove percepto caput intrò retraxit, ac aliquamdiù nullatenùs movebatur. Eſcam capiens ambo cornula arctè compoſuit; ſubindè ex hiſce binis cornubus alia duo mollia eaque rubicunda ejuſdem cum antè memoratis durioribus, longitudinis exſeruit; hæc in unam atque alteram partem motitans, ea tandem intrò rurſùs ità recondidit, ut nec umbra quidem eorum amplius conſpiceretur. Hoc in vigeſimam ſextam uſquè Julii perduravit, ubi telâ ſibi paratâ ſubſequentis anni, Aprili menſe in hanc phalænam immutata fuit.
